"MUSICAL ANNOUNCEMENT"

"EXTRAORDINARY"

THOMAS' MUSIC STORE, CAMDEN

The notorious Depot of a big stock of all kinds of Music Merchandise and especially Pianos, Player Pianos, Victor Victrolas in Mahogany, Weathered Oak, Fumed Oak, Golden Oak and Plain Oak, from $20.00 to $400.00; the biggest stock east of Boston gladly makes this announcement. LISTEN

It is with a feeling of entire satisfaction that I read in the local papers the advertisements of a new music house in the field here; their ads. bear the stamp of clean cut Music Merchandise, a statement of facts, and an appeal for your patronage. I have met the proprietors and I like them, and you will like them, for their ideals have the right ring to them. After all these years I have been in business in this section it is certainly refreshing to feel that after either of us have made a sale we shall not feel called upon to use methods to try to upset the sale and make an unhappy situation.

NOW A FEW POINTERS

Expenses enter very largely into the selling price of Pianos and Player Pianos, and expenses is the sole reason for my success in the piano business, and this is just as important to you, Mr. Piano Buyer, as it is to me. You read the Music Advertisements for what? The same reason you read all advertisements—to see where you can do the best for your money.

SURE

A package of shredded wheat in one store at 42 cents is the same amount of goods as though you bought at the other store at 45 cents, isn't it? What's the difference, you are 3 cents in, that's all; what's the reason—one word:

EXPENSE

An Emerson Piano or a Milton Piano is just the same in THOMAS' MUSIC STORE in Camden at $250.00 as it is in the big store in Chicago at $350.00. Why the difference? "EXPENSE" and you are $100.00 in. See the point!

TRUTH

For nearly 20 years I have saved hundreds of customers $400.00 on a Piano or Piano Player. My small expenses will enable me to save you $400.00 on a good piano today.

COME NOW, DON'T WAIT

Easy Terms: A little down, a little a week or monthly AS TO VICTROLAS AND RECORDS

The prices on Victrolas and Records are the same everywhere in this country, the same price in the little town of Squeedunk as they are in the big city of New York. ONE PRICE everywhere. NO CUTTING, no camouflage; if a dealer advertises a Victrola and 12 selections for $24.50 it means a $20.00 Victrola and 6 double-faced records at 75 cents each, nothing more, nothing less; any dealer gives you the same deal; there is no price cutting to it, simply a slight camouflage in figures, that's all. The Victor Company depicts this method of advertising their goods and have repeatedly asked their dealers NOT TO DO IT.

FINAL

Investigate my statements, get my prices on Pianos for the home, for the society, lodge room or club; you will save a lot of money.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE DRUGGISTS OF ROCKLAND

Gentlemen:—I take this way to thank you for the kindly interest you have manifested in "Analeptic," the sale of "Analeptic," Maine's Marvellous Medicine, since we located in your city.

I am conscious of the fact that you have had to sell "Analeptic" solely upon its merit, or, in other words, it has not had any glaring advertising, yet it is very pleasing to note the rapidly increasing local demand for it, which proves that "Analeptic" has won the confidence of the people in this community.

I believe it will please you to learn that the sale of "Analeptic" throughout the United States, and even in some foreign countries, is increasing by leaps and bounds. Up to this time the retail price of "Analeptic" at our office has not always been uniform, because we usually try to "make an agent" of each customer, but from this date (considering the fact that every "Drug Store" in Rockland sells "Analeptic") we will sell "Analeptic" from our office at the following prices, viz: One (1) package, 25c; Three (3) packages, 60c; Seven (7) packages, $1.00. Our prices to "agents" for larger lots will remain the same as formerly.

Trusting this letter is accepted by you in the spirit in which it is written, and assuring you that I will do every possible thing to co-operate with you in giving more publicity to "Analeptic," Maine's Marvellous Medicine, I am very truly yours,
ALMON W. RICHARDS, Pres.
Richards Co-operative Co.

A MAN FAMINE

IN common with other countries involved in the World War, the United States is now suffering with a depletion of its business forces because of the large number of men who have entered the service of the government in the business of war. This condition is likely to become more acute in the near future. Business effort is further hampered by the cancellation of many trains on the railroads and by congestion of traffic.

What is the answer? Conservation!

This is the watchword, the slogan of today—We are asked to save food, coal, materials of every kind, yet but little has been said about the CONSERVATION OF TIME, TRAVELLING EXPENSE, etc., which are also matters of great importance.

The most effective aid to Conservation is the telephone because—

It enables one man to do the work of many and thus conserves labor.

It is surprisingly effective of results, being equal and sometimes superior to a personal call; it thus increases business efficiency.

It is economical when we consider what can be accomplished by a telephone interview of a few minutes' duration, comprising several hundred words of conversation; it, therefore, conserves money.

Then why not make "Conservation by Telephone" your slogan?

LAST MONDAY'S ELECTIONS

Republicans Again Carry Bangor De-

catively—Citizens' Plan Successful in Belfast.

In the elections in four Maine cities, Bangor, Belfast, Brewer and Biddeford, held Monday, the Republicans carried Bangor and Brewer for mayor and city government, the latter without opposition. A Republican was elected mayor at the head of a citizens' ticket in Belfast. In Biddeford, the entire Democratic ticket was successful.

Bangor

Mayor John F. Woodman, Republican, was re-elected, the vote being: Woodman 1711; Byrnes D. 1218. The Republicans carried four wards and the Democrats three, making the joint composition of the city council stand 16 Republicans and 12 Democrats. This is Mayor Woodman's seventh election for a full term, besides a part term.

Belfast

The Citizens' ticket headed by Clement W. Wood, president of the Board of Trade and of the City National Bank as candidate for mayor, was elected without opposition at the city election. Mayor Edgar F. Hanson, a Democrat, who is completing his 1916 term, refused to accept a re-nomination and no nominations were made by his party.

Biddeford

The Democrats made a complete sweep, returning Mayor Hartley P. Banks as head of the city government and electing all other candidates. The vote for mayor was: Banks 1242; M. Harry Whelan, Jr., (R) 1020. The board of aldermen and the city council will be entirely Democratic.

Brewer

Mayor Charles W. Curtis, Republican, unopposed, was re-elected for his second term. A very small vote was cast, 240 for head of the ticket, George W. Patton, Republican, was elected alderman in Ward 5, the only contest, over Hugh F. Lynch, whose name was written on the ticket, 117 to 69.

with special patriotic features, will take place at the 10:30 a. m. service next Sunday. Relatives and friends of those on the Roll of Honor are particularly invited to be present.

At this service also there will be a special offering to provide our share of the half million dollars for the War Commission, to carry the Saranac and other ministrations of the church to our men in the army and navy.

Watch this space for later notes, especially regarding the approaching Holy Week and Easter services.

To the Baptists of Knox County:

We are called upon to do our part in the nation-wide campaign to raise $1,000,000, as a War Fund, to help sustain our particular part of the work alongside the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. in the midst of actual war activities, and also to keep in repair the machinery of the world behind the fighting line.

It is vitally necessary that this latter call be recognized. Only as this machinery is kept sound and in constant operation can the men in the actual business of fighting on land and sea, be properly backed up.

When this war ends, as end it will, the greater task of rebuilding the world must be undertaken. Here will be a call upon the resources of the churches such as they never yet have encountered. It is the duty of the church people to get ready in advance—today.

The laymen of the other great denominations are enlisting in this special work. Each church denomination is creating one of these War Funds, some of them far larger than the Baptist million dollars.

Knox County Baptists are apportioned $1,000 of this amount. It will be easily raised if everybody lends a hand. It is a patriotic call to your country's service as well as to the service of your denomination.

The opening banquet in Rockland March 20 should be attended by Baptist men from all parts of the county. Hon. Herbert M. Fillebrown, one of Rhode Island's leading business men, and Rev. Arthur S. Phelps, D. D., a distinguished speaker, will deliver stirring addresses. No money will be asked for at this meeting.

Let Every Baptist Stand Up and Be Counted

THIS PROFESSOR REMOVED
Dean of University of Maine's College of Law Lost No Opportunity To Glorify Germany, It Is Said.

Because of what they considered to be an offensive attitude and spirit of pro-Germanism on his part, a committee of the trustees of the University of Maine has removed William E. Walz from his position as dean of the University's college of law in Bangor.

A statement was issued by the trustees to the effect that it was considered that the interests of the State and of the institution would be best served by the removal of Dean Walz.

It is stated that months ago the dean was given a warning by the trustees that it would be better to confine his attention to the duties of his official position instead of proclaiming his views concerning Germany and the war. Notwithstanding this warning, it is charged that he has continued to exult Germany and German methods.

Many of the law college students took the side of the dean, giving evidence of their support by tendering him an informal banquet at the Bangor House recently. Some of the alumni also, have voiced their sentiments in disclaiming any disloyal or unpatriotic intent on the part of the dean. Others say that ever since the war began, in 1914 Dean Walz has lost no opportunity of glorifying Germany and criticizing her opponents.

President Alex, interviewed by the Bangor News in regard to any statement which the trustees might care to make, replied that "it did not care to say anything further at this time than that it was considered best for the interests of the State and the institution that Dean Walz be removed immediately."

The committee from the board of trustees which was given authority to act in the matter of the removal of Dean Walz was composed of President Alex, Frederick Jones and Col. F. H. Strickland of Bangor and Hon. Frank E. Gurnsey of Dover.

EMBARGO ON LOBSTERS

Commencing today the shipment of live lobsters to points outside of New England are not permitted, according to a ruling received a few days ago by the American Express Co. This embargo is principally due to the fact that many express cars are being used by the government, and the box cars used as substitutes do not offer facilities for re-loading the crustaceans in transit. There is nothing to indicate how long this embargo may last, but as it is caused by war conditions it will most likely be for the period of the war. It is quite a severe blow to wholesale lobster dealers, who have built up an industry of astonishing dimensions through shipments not only all over the country, but into Canada and Mexico. Now that there is an embargo on lobster shipments beyond New York it will mean that the shellfish can be bought more cheaply for home consumption?

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCE

There will be a county Sunday School Conference of all denominations in the chapel of the First Baptist church, Rockland next Monday afternoon, at 2:30 under the direction of state secretary Wesley J. Weir. The district secretaries have been notified and it is hoped a large attendance will greet Mr. Weir, who will have valuable suggestions for all. At 7:30 p. m. an open meeting will be held. The public is invited to attend this service, and all who are interested in Sunday School work are urged to be present. Every Sunday School in the city ought to be represented by a large delegation. Rev. J. J. Hull, who is known here as a live wire, will give the principal address of the evening. Rev. Melville E. Osborne and Mrs. Edwin H. Gie will sing vocal solos, and a vocal duet by two Camden women is scheduled in the tentative program.

NAPOLEON AND WILHELM

Napoleon carried the Tricolor to all the great capitals of Europe except three—St. Petersburg, Constantinople and London. The Kaiser set out on a similar expedition, but all he has been able to do thus far is to carry his flag to the capitals of some of the smallest nations in Europe—Belgium, Serbia, Montenegro and Roumania. He dreamed of a great empire stretching from Hamburg to Bagdad, but Bagdad is in the hands of the British and he seems less likely to realize that dream than he did in the years before the war when the German railway in Asia Minor was under construction—New York World.

BANQUET FOR BUSINESS MEN

Merchants' Association Will Hear Mayor Flint Outline City's Plans For Coming Year.

The Rockland Merchants' Association will dine at the Thorndike Hotel Monday night, and if the event meets with the expected success it is purposed to have a banquet in connection with each monthly meeting hereafter.

In order to make this dinner a success, and make it a monthly affair, if so desired by the association, each person who intends to be present is urged to notify either the secretary, P. L. Roberts, or the Thorndike Hotel, before Monday morning. Persons appearing at dinner without having previously notified the management will be taken care of, but if the number is in excess of that authorized by the association they will be served the regular hotel supper, and charged accordingly.

The speakers of the evening will be Mayor Flint, who will outline the city's program for the coming year; and Charles E. Crossland of the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Maine, who will review the work done last year by the Knox County Boys' and Girls' Garden and Canning Club, placing before the meeting the work which they desire to accomplish during the coming season, and the importance of this to the community and the State.

All persons interested, whether members of the association or not, are invited to the presentation.

MARCH MAGAZINES

Everyone interested in the war, every father and mother who has a boy in the service, will be grateful for the message of cheer that is given in the March American Magazine by Surgeon-General Gorras and Private Peat, Surgeon-General Gorras tells in an interview what the chances are of getting hurt or killed in this war, and his facts are indeed cheering. Private Peat, the famous soldier-lecturer, tells in a wonderful article "Why We Come Smiling Out of Hell," his story is inspiring and thrilling. The fiction this month contains stories by William Dudley Pelley, Holworthy Hall, Bruce Barton, Bertha Rich and other well-known writers. The interesting People's Army up to its usually high standard, and the Family Money and contest results hold many things of interest and worth.

In what other one magazine will you find assembled the works of fifteen literary masters, all in one issue? Yet this is what Cosmopolitan offers its readers from month to month. "After-sweat" by Fannie Hurst is a stronger argument for voluntary enlistment than anything that has appeared in any magazine since the declaration of war. "Indian Summer of a Forsythe," John Galsworthy's quaint and beautiful story, is completed in this issue. "When Alice Told Her Soul" is the first of a series of eight short stories written by Jack London just before his death. They will appear in Cosmopolitan. "What Do You Think?" by Aldous Huxley, is an unusual tale and one that will set you thinking. George Ade's "The Fable of the Uplift" is a sure cure for the worst case of "blues" and Wallingford's many admirers will enjoy his latest adventure, "The Kitchen Muse"—by George Randolph Chesler.

"WAR QUALITY" FLOUR

Is Strictly Pure Wheat Flour, and Must Be Sold With Substitutes.

Flour being received in this State and bearing the label "War Quality Milled in Accordance with Regulations of the United States Food Administration" must be sold on the "50-50" basis, according to a statement made by Federal Food Administrator Merrill.

This flour bearing the insignia "War Quality" is a strictly pure wheat flour, "and must be sold on the basis of one pound of wheat flour substitutes and one pound of wheat flour. It contains about four pounds of high grade middlings than the flour milled in pre-war times, but is all wheat."

THE HEN-AND-A-HALF PUZZLE

Here it is Again, Bothering the Good People of Knox County.

The ancient puzzle that comes to the front with perennial vigor every little while has broken out afresh in the village stores at West Rockport. It is the hen and egg puzzle.

If a hen and a half lay an egg and a half in a day and a half, how long will it take one hen to lay half a dozen eggs?

As all arithmeticians who have tackled this problem know, various answers are obtained. Readers of The Courier-Gazette are invited to join through these columns the West Rockport puzzlers. Send in your answers and they will be judged.

Does it occur to our readers that it isn't fair to expect the local paper to advertise free of charge dances, concerts and entertainments generally, for churches or other organizations that are given to make money? A newspaper is a business carried on to make a living for its owners, like any other business on the street.

The Dringo Rifle Club has a meeting next week to arrange the season's program.

Frank K. Gardner, Jr., has moved from Limerock street to 19 South Main street.

The address of Lieut. John E. Tibbitts is general delivery, Norfolk, Va., and not at a hotel as previously reported. Lieut. Tibbitts is serving in the naval dental corps at the Norfolk station.

George A. Sherman has been drawn as grand juror for the April term of U. S. District Court, which convenes in Portland April 8. Jesse Overlock of Washington has been drawn as traverse juror.

All lot owners and others interested in lots in the cemetery are asked to communicate immediately with Alan L. Bird, president, or J. E. Stevens, treasurer, of the new Cemetery Association.

It is hoped to have the new quarters of the Rockland National Bank open for public inspection one week from tomorrow, in which event the new bank will be open for business on the Monday following that date.

C. M. Harrington, who started several ribs, when he fell from an express wagon March 4, resumed his duties as agent of the American Express Co. the first of the week. "Too busy to bother with cracked ribs," says the genial Charles.

Ensign McVeigh and Lieut. Morley will conduct their farewell meeting in Salvation Army hall Sunday night. On the following Wednesday night there will be a welcome meeting for the new officers, Capt. John Sullivan and Lieut. Herbert Hathaway.

Among those who go to the talk of the town is the Champlin Stock Co., which coincides its week's engagement at Park Theatre tomorrow. Manager Parkard is being swamped with requests to secure this company for a return engagement.

Edward C. Ingraham of the American Express Co.'s staff was suddenly stricken with appendicitis Wednesday afternoon, and a few hours later was operated upon at Dr. Silsby's Hospital. His condition was extremely critical, but this morning's report is very favorable.

Now that we are partaking of meatless and wheatless days we must have nourishment of some kind, but, nevertheless, must Hooverize. Why not "laugh and grow fat"? But if you do not aim to "ride gravy to a ton," don't go to see "A Pair of Queens." Last night's play was a splendid sample of literary effort and really fine acting. It was all the producer said it was more, it contained a big thought that the author handled in a masterful manner. Mr. Champlin gave the play a lavish production, and is to be congratulated on having secured this sterling drama.

The National headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America is desirous of having the Scouts throughout the country co-operate in every way with local War Savings Stamps committees and each rescinded troop is asked to aid in the work. Every boy in the organization will thus have an opportunity to qualify for an Ace medal, together with the satisfaction of rendering patriotic service to Uncle Sam in these strenuous war times. The work can be carried on without in any way interfering with school work, other war-time activities or the regular Scouting program. The Scouts have been called to the service and it is their duty to respond one hundred per cent strong. All awards for this service will be based upon the Boy Scouts of America Red Post Card returns only. Any Scout who takes orders from 25 persons will get an "Achievement Button." When he has sold $250 in stamps the Government will send him an "Ace Medal" and a bronze palm will be added for each extra $500. The local troops will start their campaign Saturday. Every Red Post Card order for War Savings Stamps received at the postoffice will be promptly filled by the letter carrier and will count towards the Scout's quota whose name appears on the card.

THE WIGHT CO., 435 MAIN STREET

George, young son of Benjamin Ames, fell from a tree on Thomaston street a few days ago, and one of his arms was broken. Dr. Bartlett attended him, and Dr. Wassett did a little photograph work with his X-ray machine.

A pool tournament starts this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. two divisions playing—the senior, unlimited; and the junior, limited to grammar school boys. A considerable number of entries have been made, and much interest is being shown. The contest will be run on an elimination basis as in tennis.

While the first call under the second draft will require only 11 men from Knox county it has been figured at the office of the Local Board that a total of about 220 men will have to be sent from Knox county during the present year. This county furnished only 178 under the first draft. Means lots more lonesome homes.

The attractive residence on North Main street known as the Keen house, has been sold through Floyd L. Shaw's agency to Mrs. Nettie A. Robinson of Washington, who, after making extensive repairs, will make it her permanent home. Mr. Shaw also reports the sale of a valuable plot of land situated on North Main street to E. O. Philbrook.

The most pressing need of the Government service in Washington right now is for a large number of well-qualified stenographers. The Civil Service Commission urges persons who are equipped to pass the stenography part of the examination to apply at once. Examinations are held at least once a week in 450 of the principal cities. Definite information and application blanks may be obtained from representatives of the Civil Service Commission at postoffices.

John W. Glover of this city, who has been on a voyage to France, has lately arrived at a Southern port. Jack writes that he saw a number of submarines on the trip across, and that they sank a British ship. "A U-boat does not bother American ships much, because the gun crews are too much for them," says young Glover. "We have an efficient crew with us and they are very fine fellows. We saw quite a few German prisoners doing steno work and they were rather a stupid looking lot, except the officers. One of the latter, an Austrian, was of a very distinguished appearance. Do not worry about me, as the submarines are not as bad as they appear to be. We saw one sunk in the English Channel. The British destroyers dropped a depth bomb and the U-boat evaporated in small pieces. The explosion was so great we thought we were hit. We leave for France again soon."

BAPTIST MEN'S LEAGUE

Meeting Next Week To Have Two Speakers of National Reputation.

The Baptist Men's League at its meeting next Wednesday is to hear two notable speakers, who come here in connection with the Baptist War Fund drive. They are Hon. Herbert M. Filibrown of Rhode Island and Rev. Arthur S. Phelps, D. D. The addresses they will make to the league after supper will be apart from the addresses to be made later in the public meeting held in the main church.

Mr. Filibrown is one of the leading business men of New England who are putting aside private interests for the larger issues of this campaign. He is the head of the firm of H. M. & L. C. Filibrown, of Boston, who are engaged in Webbing Co., with great mills at Pawtucket and Woonsocket. These mills weave a great variety of narrow webs, tapes for automobile tires, electrical machinery, shoes, etc., the business amounting to many millions of dollars annually. He is also the president and treasurer of a great shoe factory in Brockton, Mass. He has applied the principles of Christianity to a way of life in a very unusual way and with quite remarkable results. Mr. Filibrown has come to feel that his duty cannot be fully met by giving money, and so he is giving himself. His appeal is directed to men of business and they are immediately interested in its business sense as well as its importance. He is a good representative of the men who are carrying on this campaign.

Dr. Phelps comes of a brilliant family of preachers and literary men. The chief part of his professional life has been spent in California, where he served the largest churches with great success. Three years ago he came east to the Waterville Baptist church, which has notably prospered under his charge. Dr. Phelps has also become a marked figure in the social and civic life of the Kennebec city, active in community upbuilding, and has won great popularity. He is constantly in demand for platform work, particularly in the direction of the war, and has just returned from a week lived among the 4000 men of the Naval Training Station at Newport, to whom he made daily addresses. Dr. Phelps is a witty and entertaining speaker and Rockland will enjoy hearing him.

The Men's League March session promises to be of striking interest.

THE NAVIGATION SCHOOL

High Ratings Bestowed On Capt. Magee's Latest Class of Graduates.

The last batch of graduates from the Government's Free Navigation School in Rockland returned from Bangor well pleased with the high ratings awarded by the federal steamboat inspectors.

Here is the list:

Capt. Nils Nelson of Rockland, master of sail and chief mate of steam vessels.

Capt. B. W. Dunton of Rockland, master of coastwise and mate of ocean steamships.

H. L. Ingerson of Rockland, second mate of coastwise and third mate of ocean steamships.

M. W. Powers of Deer Isle, master of coastwise and mate of ocean steamships.

Alton T. Gross of Stonington, second mate of coastwise and third mate of ocean steamships.

Albert Nutter of Rockport, third mate of ocean steamships.

Charles W. Kallach of Rockland, third mate of ocean steamships.

Vernard C. Crockett of Rockland, third mate of ocean steamships.

Four more students graduated from the school this week: Henry V. Lurvey and Lewis E. Small of Thomaston, Reddington R. Robbins of Thomaston and Willis B. Watson of Bangor. They will go to Bangor for their examinations within a few days.

New students enrolled in the school this week are Harold B. Whitney of Harrington, Samuel Simpson of Camden, William F. Murphy of Trenton, Thomas Kelley of Barnard, and Milton A. Philbrook of Matticus. Applications from Bangor, Searsport, Deer Isle and New York have been received by the instructor, Capt. Charles B. Magee.

John Husby of Camden, who graduated from the school last fall, recently passed an examination which gave him the rating of lieutenant, senior grade, and is now executive officer on the steamship Fairmount.

Young and middle aged men who already had a smattering of navigation, regret that they did not sooner take advantage of the government's generous offer as to free schooling and the remunerative positions which it leads to. With the belief that the country is in for a long war comes the conviction that here is the opportunity of a lifetime.

CUSHING

Jennie Robinson of Thomaston has been the guest of friends in town the past few weeks.

T. J. Rivers arrived home from Pepperell, Mass., Saturday night, after having visited his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Melendy and family the past few months.

A. R. Rivers arrived home from Woodford, recently, where he has spent the winter with his son Benjamin and family. He is now stopping at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cazalis, Pleasant Point.

Mrs. Gertrude Miller, and three children were guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Geyer Saturday.

Lemuel Miller of the Burnt Island Coast Guard Station, is at the Marine Hospital, Portland, for treatment. He is slowly improving and is expected home this week.

Friends of Fred I. Geyer who is suffering from a lame back, gave him a wood chopping last week.

John R. Taylor, Jr. of New York, is the guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Y. Taylor.

A party of high school students from Rockland were at the Edgerton farm Sunday week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Maloney and daughter Edith spent the week-end with relatives in Thomaston.

Mrs. Mary Fillmore
Feb. 25 occurred the death of Mary H., wife of Robert Fillmore of this place. Although she had been in ill health for several years, and not as well for the past year, yet a few weeks previous to the death her friends felt that she was recovering slowly and she too felt that she was gaining, when suddenly she was stricken and lived only a few days. Her death has cast a gloom over the community such as is not often felt. She was born Sept. 16, 1854, the oldest daughter of Francis and Rachel (Rivers) Hathorne. At the age of 10 she was converted and baptized into the Baptist church, ever being a most zealous and conscientious worker. She was treasurer of the church for many years, also teacher in the Sunday School of a class of boys, and vice president in the Sewing Circle since its origin. She was always in her place at every service, unless hindered by illness, being present many times when compelled to rest in her journey.

The following poem, The King In His Beauty, written by Mrs. Fillmore in 1910 and printed in The Watchman, was read at the funeral:

O ye who walk uprightly,
Whose trust is in the Lord,
Whose joy is in His service,
Whose heart is set on Him;
Who strive to keep unfaltering
The path the Master trod,
Who follow Him in lowliness,
The King in all His beauty,
One day thine eyes shall see."

Though oft the way be weary,
Though care oppress thee long,
Above the strife and discord
Like a chant of heavenly song
His message comes to cheer thee,
From out the Bible's quiet
And soothe to trustful quietude,
Each troubled thought of thine;
Believe beyond the veil of things,
The Heavenly rest shall be,
"The King in all His beauty,
One day thine eyes shall see."

One day He'll bid thee welcome,
Home to that far-off land,
Where clad in robes of whiteness,
His own redeemed ones stand.
There crowned with joy and gladness,
He'll walk the way of life,
Where sorrow and where sighing
Forever flee away.
Thou hast among the conflict,
This message is for thee,
"The King in all His beauty,
One day thine eyes shall see."

Melvin Libby, one of our oldest and respected citizens, fell on the ice near the postoffice last week and as a result is confined to his bed with an injured hip. He has the sympathy of his many friends and neighbors.

E. A. Bryant of Detroit, Mich., was a recent guest at the home of Bert Keller.

Daniel Keller and others during the past week have harvested their ice for the coming summer. The cakes were 30 inches thick and weighed about 400 pounds.

The Rev. Mr. Cronkite of Lewiston occupied the pulpit here one week ago last Sunday with the view of locating. He was kindly received.

Cyrus Dunbar was a recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clark. Mrs. A. O. Rokes is a guest at the home of her son, Fred, in Rockland.

Fred Parker has returned from the forest 65 miles north of Mount Kinno where he has been employed as lumberman. He says the snow is six feet deep and dry, resembling granulated sugar.

We are informed that up to the present we have had more than 400 days of good sledding and from present indications we may have 30 more.

March 30 has made good its reputation. Last Sunday morning we think was as uncomfortable as any the present winter.

Fred Keller, from Camp Devens, after a short visit, has returned a married man and mason.

Stanley Orben of Rockland is visiting his mother, Mrs. Isaac Orben.

Gershon Walder and his two daughters, of Camden, visited a few days since at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Carroll.

Oscar Gould of Whitinsville, Mass., called on friends here last Saturday.

It is hoped a group of men from this vicinity will arrange to attend the banquet given by the Men's League in Rockland next Wednesday evening, at the home of Mrs. J. D. Clark.

The occasion opens the Knox county section of the nationwide Baptist welfare drive, but no money will be solicited at the meeting.

Wilbert Deoster, wife and little girl went to Augusta, Saturday to visit relatives.

In Hallowell, March 2, occurred the death of Miss Julia Law. She was born in Union, Nov. 24, 1863, and was the only child of the late Henry and Harriet Law, her early life being spent in her home town where she received her education and taught in the public schools for several years. She was employed at the Augusta Insane Hospital when the late Dr. T. Sanborn was the superintendent. Miss Law was a special favorite of all the officials. Later in life the family, including the mother and a near friend J. D. Clark, moved to their place where they have resided in their beautiful home the past 25 years. It was a great shock to her many friends hearing of her demise, as she had been in her usual health until stricken with pneumonia. Her qualities were sterling, never speaking of any one but good words and her kind deeds will long be remembered by a host of friends. Those who knew her best loved her most. She was kindly cared for in her last sickness by a dear friend of the family J. D. Clark, and also leaves two cousins Mrs. Abbie Argerson, who was with her to the last, and Melvin Walter of Boston. The remains were brought here by undertaker, B. K. Ware to the chapel where services were conducted Tuesday afternoon by Rev. C. E. Smith of Union. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. Interment in the family lot at Bazarville.

Pimples, blotches and all other spring troubles are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla—the most effective of all spring medicines.

Proof that Some Women
do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says:

"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation.

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. Marie Boyd, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

PROFITABLE BIBLE STUDY

Something Better Than Figuring On

Armageddon and the Kaiser.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

A few weeks ago you published a statement of some English clergymen regarding the present war and the Second Advent. Will you kindly publish the enclosed article from the Record of Christian Work which explains the other side of the question.—

Walter L. Sykes, Press Reporting Synagogue, Appleton, Me.

Curiosity makes a strong appeal to men. Whatever has the element of mystery challenges the imagination.

This doubtless accounts for the fascination which attaches to all efforts to peer into the future. It is an interest common to all religions and races.

The untold savage, like the cultured Greek, sought omens, whether in the sky, or in the entrails of the sacrificial offering. Saul turned to the witch of Endor to learn the future for the same reason men turn to mediums today.

Methods may change with time, but man's yearning to pry into the future is unabated. Phantoms are not dead, but live in the mind, essentially the same. It was in recognition of this, in past ages, that paganism

claimed powers of divination and oracles assumed knowledge of coming events. Propaganda of the future in forms of heathenism have similarly appealed to their adherents.

It was distinctly this spirit of idle curiosity and love for mystery-delving that Christ warned his disciples.

Whole Christianity gives assurance of immortality, its chief emphasis is upon the life that now is. It concerns itself with an ethical life in a complex society. Although Christ foretold his return, he discouraged all speculation

as to its date. "Of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven." He says, and then implies that the best preparation for his coming is faithfulness in service. Again, when his disciples would know if they might look for his return, he said: "It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power." The return of our Lord was to be "in an hour as ye think not." In Paul's conception, service that was actuated

by love was of prime importance. It was this kind of Bible study that Christ warned his disciples.

Fuller of Rockland will be present at this service and will speak briefly in connection with the coming Baptist War Fund drive, of which he is the county chairman, and to this service men are specially invited.

The following extracts from a letter written by Robert D. Butler to his sister Fannie, will be interesting to his many Thomaston friends: "I got the Courier you sent me that had about the big Rockland fire. That must have been some fire. I would like to have seen it. I saw one over here but it wasn't as large as that one. I know that you were always patriotic and as I enlisted without consulting my folks, I will tell you the reason why. In the first place I was thinking pretty seriously about it for two or three months before I did. So when that time came in town that day, June 1917, and the Lieutenant said my country was at war and needed men, there was a tingling went from my head clear to the tips of my toes. He also said that in a short while we would go to France, so you see I knew before I signed up where I was going. I just had to do it. I said to myself that my own people before me fought for their country and I was just as well able to fight as they were. So here I am and feel that the satisfaction I never regretted the day I signed those papers. Of course I never was away from home much and it came kind of hard at first but a fellow gets used to it after a while. If I got my discharge today I should hate to accept it, for I want to see it through and come home with the boys. Take good care of the dogs and don't let anyone have Hunter. He is one of my best friends and always would play with me in the woods when the others would beat it off. I will close with lots of love from Robert Butler, Co. H, 103 U. S. Infantry, 26th Division, American Expeditionary Forces, via New York."

THE SECOND ARMY DRAFT

It Begins March 29, But Will Call For Only 11 Knox County Men At That Time.

Eight hundred thousand men are to be called to the colors gradually during the present year, under the second army draft which begins March 29. An announcement Wednesday by Provost Marshal General Crowder of the number to be called was followed closely by an order for the mobilization of 95,000 men during the five-day period beginning March 29, some 15,000 of them to be assembled under the second draft. Eighty thousand will be men of the first draft of 187,000 not yet summoned.

Details of how the second draft is to be applied will be made public after Congress has acted upon proposed legislation providing for the registration of youths attaining the age of 21 years and for basing state and district quotas on the number of registrants in Class one.

The 95,000 men now called, it is understood, are needed at once to fill up divisions and other units scheduled for early departure or to take the place of men transferred from other divisions to make up deficiencies.

To Fill Existing Divisions
The 800,000 men to be summoned this year represent the number necessary to fill up all existing divisions, to create all the army corps and field army troops to fill out the war machine for which the framework already exists and to provide a quarter of a million replacement troops.

The purpose of the War Department is to complete the first field army in France. Probably this will be composed of five army corps of six infantry divisions each.
Men in deferred classifications, the provost marshal general announced, would be called in small numbers, as well as men in Class 1, for the purpose of utilizing special technical qualifications or sending them to schools to acquire such qualifications.

The provost marshal general makes the definite statement, however, that there will be no sudden withdrawal of great numbers of men from industry and agriculture during the coming summer, but that they will be drawn in relatively small groups spread throughout the year. To give the exact numbers, he says, would be to give the enemy military information.

To Consider Agriculture
"There are difficulties confronting the nation in the supply of labor appurtenant to agriculture. Class 1, from which new levies are to be withdrawn, will contain many more men than at present required for the army. It would be a most unscientific and fatuous step if the men in Class 1 were called indiscriminately, without regard to the labor situation in agriculture. Therefore the local boards will be directed to fill their quotas in the order of liability of men in Class 1, as determined by the national drawing, except that, where it is shown that a registrant is completely and assiduously engaged in the planting, cultivation or reaping of a crop, his call to the colors shall be deferred to the foot of the quota of his board as long as he continues to be so engaged."

"Whenever any registrant, whose call to the colors has been deferred by reason of his engagement in agriculture, is shown to have been idle on the farm on which he is engaged or to have trifled with the deferment that has been accorded him, the board will forthwith induct him into military service if his order number has been reached in the mean time. The effect of this expedient is to grant furloughs from service prior to actual call to colors to the men to greatly needed in the production of this year's crop."

"This is not, however, the only expedient that is to be adopted to conserve the supply of labor appurtenant to agriculture and to mobilize all means for increasing the harvest for the agricultural season of 1918."

Furloughs For Farmers
"There is now pending before Congress a bill authorizing the secretary of war to grant furloughs, with or without pay, to men in the army to enable them to engage in industrial and agricultural pursuits. These furloughs will be granted after consideration of the circumstances of the individual case in which they arise and when the military situation is such that they can be granted without too great disruption and disorganization of the army or of any particular organization of the army."

"Withdrawals of men from industry must be made and these withdrawals must take men who might otherwise be deferred on account of their special qualifications and skill. The necessary numbers of such skilled men will be obtained in three ways: First, men already in the military service who have such special skill will be taken from the line regiments and assigned to the staff organizations and departments where their skill is needed; second, men classified by the section boards, even though they may have been placed in a deferred classification, will be withdrawn with great care and particularly from the industries of the nation for special service in staff corps and departments; third, young men of draft age with certain educational qualifications will be inducted into the service and sent to universities, colleges and technical and secondary schools, to be instructed in technical arts until they have acquired such proficiency as will justify their assignment of the special units that are being organized in considerable numbers."

"In accordance with this plan, the provost marshal general has already called upon the states for some 10,000 skilled artisans and will shortly call upon the states for 10,000 young men, graduates of grammar schools, who he sent before the first of April to various technical and other schools throughout the United States for a two-months course of training. Regularly thereafter, an increasing stream of selected men will be sent through educational and other training institutions for this purpose."

Adjutant General Presson has notified the Local Board for Knox County that it is expected to furnish 11 men under the above call, and that they will be sent to Camp Devens during the five-day period beginning March 29. The number of men called for must be actually delivered and no credits are to be delivered at this time. Only men and men physically qualified for general military service may be inducted under his call.

SOLDIER FOR A DAY
E. T. G. Rawson Recalls His Unique Experience Back in Civil War Times.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:
Reading so much of late about military matters, carries me back to the years of the Civil War. I was inducted into the "Office of the Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department" early in 1861. Soon after, the force was composed of 125 men, organized themselves into a military company called the "Adams Guard" in honor of the Hon. Green Adams of Kentucky, our captain and auditor.

We drilled after office hours for many months. The government supplied us with muskets, and we became fairly proficient in the manual of arms of those days. Our object was to render our service to the government, should any sudden emergency arise requiring it.

In 1863 the Confederates made a drive into Maryland, threatening Washington. We then tendered our services, were accepted, and marched to the War Department, where we were mustered into the service. The equipment was the same as all other troops. We were marched down Pennsylvania avenue and across the eastern branch of the Potomac river into Maryland. We then bivouacked for the night, awaiting further orders. The next day we were ordered to march to the front. We were then ordered to march to the front. We were then ordered to march to the front.

Previous to this I was drafted just as I was recovering from a sick spell of some seven or eight weeks, but was able to respond to the call for examination. Arriving at the place designated I found a long line of men waiting their turn to be examined. A soldier on guard at the inner door spied me in the rear of the line. Catching my eye, he beckoned to me. I held up my hand to be sure he meant me. He nodded. I went to the head of the line and he gave me his seat, and at the first call from within he let me in. I must have been a sorry looking sight to receive that attention. I weighed about 150 pounds. I was an inch or more under the minimum measurement required, consequently I was exempted for decided feebleness of constitution.

A former room-mate of mine in the office, who had been removed in 1861, went into the grocery business, and making a failure of it had requested some of the clerks to raffle off a watch for him. It was put up at $35. I was asked to take a chance, which I consented to do providing I was exempted from the draft as I otherwise I should have to pay $300 commutation money. So, being exempted, I kept my promise. Just then, having been granted a leave of absence for a month, I was about to leave for the train when a man came to our room and says: "They are going to raffle that watch tonight." Turning to my room-mate, I said: "Mr. H., you act for me." On my return from my vacation I was informed that I was the winner of the watch. I carried it about 35 years, and still have it, but it is out of commission.

AMERICAN INDIANS TO FIGHT
Will Go Up Against the Hun In the Interest of World Humanity.

A London despatch says: "Oklahoma will give a good account of herself before the war is over," said Colonel George Griffiths, of Oklahoma City, when seen at the Savoy Hotel. He is a Colonel by courtesy and is not a member of any military army. Thus he is privileged to discuss the war and America's part in it without risking sentence from the censor.

"To begin with, Oklahoma has a regiment of full blooded Indians. They are about through with their training at Fort Sill and some day, perhaps, they will be over here taking their place at the front. Some of them are volunteers and some are in the draft army, but they are all willing members of Uncle Sam's contingent, and if they are anything like their forefathers they will not falter when the word comes to go over the top."

"They are chiefly of the Osage tribe and are fine, upstanding types of men. Many of them are well to do and all are able to take care of themselves anywhere at any time."

"Speaking of the Indian, it is an interesting thing for the world to think about—this what I'm about to tell you. The Indians in America were noted for their savagery, their massacres and their mercilessness. All true in a way. But here's something for the Hun to give consideration to. The worst Indian, the wildest Indian, the most unscrupulous red man America ever produced would not violate a treaty nor would he harm an ill man. He would kill and he would attack in the night, but the home of the ill was respected and a treaty was a thing regarded as sacred, even by these men who were set down as the most savage types of all time."

"It follows, therefore, that an American Indian is a gentleman alongside a German. This ought to be a happy reflection for the Hun."

SPRING TREATMENT

Necessary to Purify Blood and Correct Weak, Run-Down Conditions.

Trying weather, exposure to storms, the grip, hard colds, pneumonia, fevers, diphtheria and other blood-poisoning, prostrating diseases leave the whole system subnormal—below par—weak and slow—blood depleted and thin, with that tired feeling, poor appetite, backache, rheumatic pains, delicate digestive power or almost none at all. The ideal treatment is

Hood's Sarsaparilla—to be taken before meals—thoroughly to purify the blood and expel poisons, and Pepsitron—to be taken after meals—to put power into the blood, give strength, increase red corpuscles and restore tone, and do it quickly.

If there is biliousness, constipation, bad taste in the mouth, despondency or "the blues," the liver is torpid. Take Hood's Pills—they rouse the liver and relieve all liver ills, and are perfectly compatible with Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pepsitron.

Begin this Spring treatment today.

The necessary numbers of such skilled men will be obtained in three ways: First, men already in the military service who have such special skill will be taken from the line regiments and assigned to the staff organizations and departments where their skill is needed; second, men classified by the section boards, even though they may have been placed in a deferred classification, will be withdrawn with great care and particularly from the industries of the nation for special service in staff corps and departments; third, young men of draft age with certain educational qualifications will be inducted into the service and sent to universities, colleges and technical and secondary schools, to be instructed in technical arts until they have acquired such proficiency as will justify their assignment of the special units that are being organized in considerable numbers."

"In accordance with this plan, the provost marshal general has already called upon the states for some 10,000 skilled artisans and will shortly call upon the states for 10,000 young men, graduates of grammar schools, who he sent before the first of April to various technical and other schools throughout the United States for a two-months course of training. Regularly thereafter, an increasing stream of selected men will be sent through educational and other training institutions for this purpose."

Adjutant General Presson has notified the Local Board for Knox County that it is expected to furnish 11 men under the above call, and that they will be sent to Camp Devens during the five-day period beginning March 29. The number of men called for must be actually delivered and no credits are to be delivered at this time. Only men and men physically qualified for general military service may be inducted under his call.

SOLDIER FOR A DAY
E. T. G. Rawson Recalls His Unique Experience Back in Civil War Times.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:
Reading so much of late about military matters, carries me back to the years of the Civil War. I was inducted into the "Office of the Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department" early in 1861. Soon after, the force was composed of 125 men, organized themselves into a military company called the "Adams Guard" in honor of the Hon. Green Adams of Kentucky, our captain and auditor.

We drilled after office hours for many months. The government supplied us with muskets, and we became fairly proficient in the manual of arms of those days. Our object was to render our service to the government, should any sudden emergency arise requiring it.

In 1863 the Confederates made a drive into Maryland, threatening Washington. We then tendered our services, were accepted, and marched to the War Department, where we were mustered into the service. The equipment was the same as all other troops. We were marched down Pennsylvania avenue and across the eastern branch of the Potomac river into Maryland. We then bivouacked for the night, awaiting further orders. The next day we were ordered to march to the front. We were then ordered to march to the front.

Previous to this I was drafted just as I was recovering from a sick spell of some seven or eight weeks, but was able to respond to the call for examination. Arriving at the place designated I found a long line of men waiting their turn to be examined. A soldier on guard at the inner door spied me in the rear of the line. Catching my eye, he beckoned to me. I held up my hand to be sure he meant me. He nodded. I went to the head of the line and he gave me his seat, and at the first call from within he let me in. I must have been a sorry looking sight to receive that attention. I weighed about 150 pounds. I was an inch or more under the minimum measurement required, consequently I was exempted for decided feebleness of constitution.

A former room-mate of mine in the office, who had been removed in 1861, went into the grocery business, and making a failure of it had requested some of the clerks to raffle off a watch for him. It was put up at $35. I was asked to take a chance, which I consented to do providing I was exempted from the draft as I otherwise I should have to pay $300 commutation money. So, being exempted, I kept my promise. Just then, having been granted a leave of absence for a month, I was about to leave for the train when a man came to our room and says: "They are going to raffle that watch tonight." Turning to my room-mate, I said: "Mr. H., you act for me." On my return from my vacation I was informed that I was the winner of the watch. I carried it about 35 years, and still have it, but it is out of commission.

AMERICAN INDIANS TO FIGHT
Will Go Up Against the Hun In the Interest of World Humanity.

A London despatch says: "Oklahoma will give a good account of herself before the war is over," said Colonel George Griffiths, of Oklahoma City, when seen at the Savoy Hotel. He is a Colonel by courtesy and is not a member of any military army. Thus he is privileged to discuss the war and America's part in it without risking sentence from the censor.

"To begin with, Oklahoma has a regiment of full blooded Indians. They are about through with their training at Fort Sill and some day, perhaps, they will be over here taking their place at the front. Some of them are volunteers and some are in the draft army, but they are all willing members of Uncle Sam's contingent, and if they are anything like their forefathers they will not falter when the word comes to go over the top."

"They are chiefly of the Osage tribe and are fine, upstanding types of men. Many of them are well to do and all are able to take care of themselves anywhere at any time."

"Speaking of the Indian, it is an interesting thing for the world to think about—this what I'm about to tell you. The Indians in America were noted for their savagery, their massacres and their mercilessness. All true in a way. But here's something for the Hun to give consideration to. The worst Indian, the wildest Indian, the most unscrupulous red man America ever produced would not violate a treaty nor would he harm an ill man. He would kill and he would attack in the night, but the home of the ill was respected and a treaty was a thing regarded as sacred, even by these men who were set down as the most savage types of all time."

"It follows, therefore, that an American Indian is a gentleman alongside a German. This ought to be a happy reflection for the Hun."

FOOD WILL WIN THE WAR

SEXTANTS ARE NEEDED

United States Swept Bare of Instruments Used To Guide Ships.—History of Instrument.

Washington, March 12.—One of the early effects of the war was an acute shortage of the instrument most used in navigating ships at sea, the sextant.

In a few weeks after the United States became a party to the great struggle, the market was swept bare of what might be termed the floating supply of these important instruments.

Since then, importations from England, Canada and France have eased the American market somewhat, but there is still a sufficient shortage to hold the price far above what it formerly was.

In the early months of this country's participation in the war, when the United States shipping board was establishing the chain of navigation schools at which it is training officers for the new merchant marine, there was such a scarcity of these necessary instruments—which are used daily in the schools to teach methods of determining a ship's position at sea—that an appeal was made for the loan of instruments.

The result was striking. Out of the closets and attics of former captain's homes, particularly in New England, sextants appeared that had not seen the light, in some cases, since the days of the clipper-ship era, when the United States was supreme on the sea.

Many of these instruments had been on long voyages to the mysterious East; others had been in the whale fishery to the far North; a few had been carried among the Cannibal Islands of the South Pacific, others among the pirates of the China seas.

It had not been thought, when these instruments were stowed away by careful hands, years ago, that they would ever again serve the merchant marine, white others, which have been presented to the shipping board, are actually making voyages again, this time among the pirates of the submarine zone.

A sextant, unlike a watch or any instrument with constantly moving parts, is very slow to wear out. There is not much difference in the sextant of today and the original sextants produced in England when the instrument was first perfected by John Hadley back in 1731.

Hadley called his instrument at first an octant, because it represented in its scale of degrees but an eighth part of the circle, that is, 45 degrees. Later instruments were termed quadrants, as they represented a quarter of a circle, 90 degrees. The sextant, or sixth of a circle, 60 degrees, was found to be most practical, and in time came into general use. The practical distinction between these three instruments is slight, however.

The first sextant was not an invention, as might be supposed, but an adaptation of ancient instruments used by astronomers from time immemorial to determine the sun's elevation, or latitude. The oldest of these ancient instruments was the astrolabe, a disk of copper or brass, cut to the full circle of 360 degrees. This was fitted with a plumb line, and on its face a bar pivoted on the center, and having at one end a pin. One man held up the disk by the line, another sighted the sun over the pin in the end of the bar, and another noted where the shadow cast by the pin fell on the scale of degrees marked on the disk.

If thus took three men to make an observation, which was usually faulty, while the use of such an instrument on a moving ship was almost an impossibility.

Another ancient observing instrument was the cross-staff. This consisted of a bar of wood—some of them were seven feet long—fitted with a sliding upright bar, or cross. The long bar was held toward the sun, and the observer was posted at one end. The shorter bar was then moved back or forth until the observer saw the sun over its upper tip and the horizon at the same time under its lower tip. The angle thus determined was marked on a scale on the long bar.

A grave objection to this instrument was that the observer was obliged to look at the sun and the horizon at the same time.

Columbus used both instruments on his voyage to the new world, but apparently neither helped him much in determining the position of his ships, which he could only guess at until he made a landfall in the West Indies.

John Hadley conceived the idea of employing the principle of the cross-staff in an instrument that would enable the observer to see both the sun and the horizon when looking at the latter. This he accomplished by arranging a series of mirrors in such a part of an arm, or lever, attached to an arc brought the sun down to touch the horizon.

When the observer using the sextant pels the sun down to the horizon, he fixes the arm on the scale by means of a screw, and proceeds to read the scale, which gives him the sun's altitude in degrees.

When Hadley brought his sextant out in 1731, it was given a trial by the British authorities, on the yacht Chatham, off Spithead, on a gusty day in August. We read that the weather "was too rough for a satisfactory test." Rough weather is a frequent cause for trouble in handling the sextant, as it is difficult to "center" the sun and bring it down upon the uncertain platform of a moving deck.

The value of Hadley's instrument was not at once recognized by mariners, but its worth has been amply demonstrated by the fact that no essential change has been made in it way that the observer by the movement of an arm, or lever, attached to an arc brought the sun down to touch the horizon.

since it first appeared, nearly two centuries ago.

With the sextant perfected, the apparatus used by a navigator was greatly reduced in bulk. Some of the ancient ships, bound on long voyages, took along a great variety of apparatus that today would be valuable only as junk or curios.

Now the American officer, ready to ship for service overseas, takes his sextant, the most important of all navigating instruments next to the compass, in a neat mahogany case only nine inches square by five inches deep, and needs nothing further, except the ship's chronometer, to enable him to tell where he is every day on his voyage across the vast deep.

At present recruiting is going on in various parts of the country for the new American Merchant Marine. Young men from 17 to 27 years of age are accepted for training as apprentices, and are prepared on training ships for service on the nation's new cargo-carrying fleets. This work is being conducted by the Recruiting Service of the U. S. Shipping Board, with national headquarters at the Custom House, Boston, Mass.
